Heritage Language Acquisition

This course focuses on the grammatical development of Heritage Languages and Heritage Language speakers in light of current theoretical claims and recent experimental research. Heritage Language speakers are individuals whose first language (L1) is a language that is spoken in their family, which is, however, different from the dominant language of the community. Through the analysis of the grammatical properties of heritage languages around the globe, we are going to see how language develops in heritage language speakers, and how different or similar heritage language speakers are in comparison to native speakers and second language learners of the dominant language.

Time:
see KIS: Sozialwissenschaften/Psycholinguistik und Sprachentwicklung; Dr. Kalliopi Katsika